Most Sustainable School: SILVER Qatr Al Nada School, Madinat Zayed

Having participated in Sustainable Schools since four years, the school is a real life example of “Awareness to Action”. Through this initiative they have transformed the lives of their student and their community.

They have reduced their ecological footprint by combining simple techniques with innovative thinking. Their grey water recycling mechanism, their composting, their solar panels, their school’s huge garden, etc. are all a few examples of how they worked towards improving their environmental sustainability.

Their awareness drives have transformed their communities, the medical waste campaign saw a real change in their community that got the attention of the local municipality as well to carry it forward and support them. The strength in this school is that they are truly a “Sustainable School” in the true sense. Sustainable Schools is a “Whole School” initiative that targets all the school’s students, teachers and non-teaching staff.

The Qatr Al Nada School has had a 90% involvement in this project from the students and staff. We hope that soon this will increase to include the whole school.
